

REASSURING REPORTS AID MEDIATION PLAN

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS RELIEVE TENSION ON EVE OF NIAGARA FALLS CONFERENCE.

SILLIMAN UNDER GUARD

American Consul Who Was Imprisoned at Saltillo Guaranteed Safe Conveyance to Vera Cruz.

Washington, May 13.—With plans for the Mexican mediation conference at Niagara Falls, Ontario, next week rapidly maturing, the tension of the international conflict was relieved by important developments.

News has reached the government that no ammunition has been landed in Mexico from the German ships, which was a matter in doubt since the departure of the Kron Prinzessin from Puerto, Mexico, several days ago.

Silliman is Safe. From the French legation in Mexico came positive information that the American vice-consul, John R. Silliman, who has been imprisoned at Saltillo, was on his way to Mexico City, under guard, to be turned over to the Brazilian minister, who will guarantee his safety until he reaches Vera Cruz. The state department has vigorously insisted that Huerta would release Silliman.

Concern was aroused, however, over the reported execution of Samuel Funston, an American orderly who disappeared several days ago from Vera Cruz, while believed to have been degraded on account of excessive heat. Unofficial reports say that he has been executed. But General Funston has communicated nothing officially concerning him except as to his disappearance.

Secretary of War Garrison directed General Funston to ask the Mexican commander, General Maas, for information of the whereabouts of the missing soldier. It was said that serious complications might arise if it proved true he was executed.

May Operate Lighthouses. Secretary Bryan made it clear today that this government would welcome a return of the Mexican lighthouse tenders, to the lighthouse on Lobos Islands, which was abandoned, and which American naval forces seized for the benefit of navigation.

This government, it is said, did not consider the meaning of the lighthouse an act of war and would continue to operate the lighthouse unless Huerta sends a Mexican force there.

Secretary Bryan announced today that if General Dage, former minister to Panama, had been appointed secretary to the delegation which will represent the United States before the Argentine, Brazilian and Chilean mediators in the Mexican capital to take up their duties at Niagara Falls, Monday.

A Tangle of Problems. A stumbling block in the path of a preliminary attempt to compose the Mexican problem appeared today, when mediation plans were unofficially revealed. Disposition of the South American detainees by General Funston at Vera Cruz for "sniping" was held in abeyance, and the "Lobos Island" incident had not been lost sight of yet. Assuring news from Huerta's foreign minister that the American Vice-Consul Silliman had been released from Saltillo and sent to Mexico City where he would have safe conduct to General Funston, was received.

A report that the South American envoys were tentatively considering a plan for the possible establishment of a form of government to include five administrators, two to be named by the Federals, two by the Constitutionalists and the fifth by the mediators, attracted some attention and immediately drew from Carranza's agent, the declaration that any such proposal would not be acceptable to them. One report detailed the contemplated elimination of Huerta.

The South American mediators resumed their session today with plans being matured not only for the adjustment of the Lobos Island and other State's Informer in Becker Trial Bears Up Well Under Grilling's Cross-Examination.

New York, May 13.—"Bald Jack" Rose, the informer, went through the ordeal of cross-examination today at the trial of Charles Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

Martin F. Manton, chief of the Becker counsel, began by asking Rose why he changed his name from Rosenzweig to Rose. He said he changed it twenty-three years ago. He denied that he had ever been in jail during that time. Manton put a long list of questions to him to bring out the life of the witness. Rose calmly met each implication, denying that he had engaged in petty larcenies, that he had been associated with women of the street, that he had been a "steerer" for an opium den.

Rose's acquaintance with Rosenthal dates back twenty-five years. He denied that he quarreled when business connections were dissolved. It is a contention of the defense that Rosenthal was a victim of the gambler's way.

The defense introduced transcripts of yesterday's testimony from the first trial showing discrepancies in the matter of meetings between Rose and Becker. Rose admitted the discrepancies but did not explain them.

REBELS CAPTURING TAMPICO REPORTED

Admiral Mayo Reports That Constitutionalists Resume Fighting at Tampico and Will Capture Port.

Washington, May 13.—Heavy firing at Tampico was resumed at midnight and constitutionalists say they expect to capture Tampico today, according to a dispatch received at the navy department from Admiral Mayo. He reported that "the general impression seems to be that the expectations of the constitutionalists will be realized."

Juarez, Mexico, May 13.—The final rebel attack on Tampico is expected at any moment, according to a message received from Gonzales, the constitutionalist commander. The families of all the foreigners have left the city in boats according to the message.

STATE MILITIA BILL STIRS UP COLORADO

Million Dollar Bond Issue Measure Again Brought Before State Senate for Debate.

Denver, Colorado, May 13.—The million dollar bond issue bill devised to meet past and possible future expenses of the state militia was read a third time in the senate today after having been passed on the second reading yesterday, after a most vigorous resistance by the administrative forces during the present session of the legislature.

Charges Against Major. Strike charges of arson, murder, man-slaughter and larceny against Major Patrick J. Hamrick of the first regiment of the Colorado National Guards were filed before a general court martial at the state rifle range today. The charges grew out of the battle between the state militia and the coal miners at Ludlow on April 20 and the fire which destroyed the strikers' tent colony.

MANY CATHOLICS AT PILGRIMAGE TODAY

Over 9,000 Persons Gathered About St. Rita's Church—Today To Hear Miraculous Stories.

Chicago, Illinois, May 13.—The lame, the halt and the blind were among the 9,000 persons gathered about St. Rita's Roman Catholic church here today attracted by stories of miraculous powers of St. Rita's shrine, said by the Reverend Father Joseph Greene, who brought it from Rome, to contain a portion of the leg bone of St. Rita.

The pilgrimage is an annual devotion, always marked by the stories of wonderful recovery from affliction of some of those who attend the novena. Last year the novena developed some stories of cripples who threw away their crutches, of the blind who saw and the dumb who spoke. Father Greene was asked for confirmation of the stories at the time, and was always known to say "So the patients told me." He did not touch personally on any "cure."

YOUTH IS KILLED BY PLAYMATE TUESDAY

Frederick Codd, Aged 9, Is Dead As Result of Carelessness of Chum, Who Is But 12 Years Old.

Winnebago, Wis., May 13.—Frederick Codd, aged nine years, son of Rev. F. Codd, was killed here last evening by Virgil Smith, aged twelve years, son of S. J. Smith, a grocer of this village.

A coroner's inquest was held this afternoon by District Attorney D. E. McDonald of Oshkosh. It is expected full details of the shooting would be brought out. The rifle, which has brought a cloud of sorrow over the village, was given to Smith by a local blacksmith, so that he might play soldier. The trigger was broken off and the rifle was not loaded as known. By using a nail for a trigger the boy got the hammer so it would snap and it is supposed he got a cartridge from a 22-calibre firearm, which fired the rifle.

No coherent statement could be obtained from the boy this morning, as he is on the verge of collapse.

Will you not kindly express to the members of the senate my appreciation?"

There were no other passengers.

HUERTA'S DOOM NEAR SAYS O'SHAUGHNESSY

MEXICAN CHARGE DE AFFAIRS CONFERS WITH PRESIDENT WILSON ON HUERTA'S STAND.

PREPARING FOR CRISIS

Mexican Ruler With Few Followers to Make Last Stand at Puebla. Huerta Prepares for Ultimate Exile.

Washington, D. C., May 13.—That General Huerta, preparing for a crisis in his dictatorship, has long been planning to leave Mexico City with his troops and make a last stand at Puebla, midway between Mexico City and Vera Cruz, was understood today to have been told to President Wilson last night by Nelson O'Shaughnessy, former charge in the Mexican capital.

The president, it is said, was informed that Huerta had picked Puebla for his last refuge in case rebel assaults got too close to Mexico City, and that late developments in the revolution had already caused him to begin fortifying and provisioning Puebla.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy is said to have told the president that Huerta had no intention of resigning, but that the Mexican dictator realized that his regime would not last long. It is said that he would rather fight at Puebla than eliminate it.

Realizing that he will be eventually deposed, Huerta, it is said, desires to acquire as much glory as possible before the inevitable happens.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy is said to have further told the president that the number of troops Huerta has at his command is greatly exaggerated, and that as a matter of fact, they only six thousand. Neither Zapata or Villah would have any great difficulty in taking the city is understood to be the view Mr. O'Shaughnessy expressed.

His information is along the lines of other reports reaching the government within the last few weeks. Further information from these sources is that Huerta has been shipping gold abroad in contemplation of his ultimate exile.

Washington has already furnished its quota, she said.

Several nurses were inoculated against typhoid and next week some will be vaccinated against small pox. Costume makers are busy executing orders for outfits of new nurses.

INDEFINITE SENTENCES URGED FOR WIFE BEATERS

Berlin, May 13.—Indefinite sentences of imprisonment for habitually drunken husbands who mistreat their wives and children are demanded by the Federated Women's Societies of Germany. At a meeting today of the organization it was decided to petition the government to legalize such sentences of punishment. Numerous speakers agreed that there was no other way of combating the constantly growing danger to the lives and morals of drunkard's families. It is proposed that offenders shall be kept in prison so long as there is the slightest probability that they would repeat their liberty by committing further excesses.

SHAPE LEGISLATION TO FOLLOW PROGRAM

HOUSE PREPARES FOR STRENUOUS WORK PRECEDING ADJOURNMENT IN JULY.

TRUST BILL MUST GO

Majority Leader Underwwood Insists That Anti-Trust Measure Must Pass Ahead of Other Business.

Washington, D. C., May 13.—The House today began adjusting itself to the new legislative program of concentration on anti-trust bills and appropriation measures, with adjournment of the session on July 10. Debate is tentative, but administrative leaders hope to adjourn by that time.

No Rural Credit Act. President Wilson will abide by the democratic caucus action in abandoning the rural credit legislation at this session of Congress. Representative Glass of Virginia, chairman of the banking and currency committee, conferred with the president today and explained that in his opinion the federal reserve bank act will extend credit aggregating $500,000,000 on farm lands. This will, in a measure, cover the credit which the rural credit act was meant. It was pointed out that the rural credit bill framed by Representative Bulkley and the subcommittee was not broad enough in its provisions to satisfy the full membership of the banking and current committee.

President's Attitude. The president, it is understood, especially desires that the rural credit act should extend to the tenant farmer. Under the measure prepared by the subcommittee only the landowner would have credit. In the opinion of the president, it would take many weeks to discuss and frame a rural credit act which would satisfy the membership. Pres. Wilson is willing to accept the caucus action pending further investigation of a rural credit which meets the approval of the members.

House leaders under the caucus-bond program will insist that Covington anti-trust bill, the Clayton anti-trust bill and the Rayburn bill for federal reserve stock and bonds be passed in the order named or at least voted upon and sent over to the Senate.

Rush Anti-Trust Bill. This is the sixth time that the instance of President Wilson, but it will not necessarily preclude consideration of other matters deemed urgent if there is sufficient time before the tentative adjournment starts. Majority Leader Underwwood made it clear today that the action of the caucus means that the anti-trust measures must be passed, but that it does not necessarily "exclude" other things. Appropriation bills will be expedited but will give way to the anti-trust bills.

The appropriation committee today framed an emergency deficiency bill to provide for the expenses of the recently submitted by the war department, aggregating almost $3,000,000 for expenses past and immediate in the future on account of activities in Mexico and on the border. This also will not be interfered with. The diplomatic and consular appropriation bill will probably be disposed of tomorrow.

Prohibition Amendment. It was declared in some quarters today that efforts would be made later to bring up the resolution for a nationwide prohibition amendment to the constitution.

A special emergency deficiency appropriation bill carrying $6,770,632, including more than $6,000,000 by military establishment and by expenditure of account of past and contemplated action in Mexico and on the Mexican border, was ordered favorably reported to the house by the appropriation committee today. It will be taken up in the house next week.

Report is That Dominican Officials Have Proclaimed Puerto Plata and Monte Cristi Closed.

Washington, Bulletin, May 13.—The Dominican government has proclaimed a blockade at Puerto Plata and Monte Cristi, two northern Dominican towns or ports now held by the revolutionary forces, according to a report received by the navy department today by auditor of the gunboat Wheeling, who also said that government forces had taken Valverde.

TWO CONTROVERSIAL BILLS OF INTEREST BEFORE PARLIAMENT

House of Commons to Decide on Home Rule—Welsh Church Question and Abolition of Plural Voting.

(By Associated Press.)

London, May 13.—This month probably will see the passage through the House of Commons of three great controversial measures, Home Rule for Ireland, the establishment of the Welsh Church, and the abolition of plural voting. The first two will have been passed for the third time under the Parliament Act, and no matter what the House of Lords do with them, they will become law. The third, a bill still has another time to pass through the House of Commons.

Of course the greatest interest is taken in the Home Rule bill. There has been much talk of compromise and settlement by consent, but the best informed opinion of the country is that nothing in this direction will be done. In the House of Commons, and any settlement must be reached when the bill is before the Lords.

Against Compromise. The Nationalists and Ulster Unionists have stated their demands quite plainly and there seems no room for compromise between them. The Nationalists have agreed to the temporary exclusion of Ulster from the operation of the bill, while the Ulster Unionists demand permanent exclusion. Neither side apparently will recede, although Nationalists have been heard to say that perhaps there will be a little more concession to "save the face of the Ulster Unionists."

It was thought Mr. Balfour, who knows his Ireland well, would be the man to find common ground on which the opposing leaders could meet, but his speech at the Hyde Park demonstration, in which he spoke against compromise, has ruled him out, and now it is for the Lords to find the way out, if the question is to be settled by consent.

Federal System. There has been talk of a Federal system for the whole of the United Kingdom, and it has been suggested that Ulster should be excluded from the Home Rule Bill until the system is inaugurated when she could choose the state which she would join. The federal system, however, has many influential opponents, and as for Ulster it raises another difficulty. Many of the great Belfast merchants do the bulk of their business with the people of the South and West of Ireland. These merchants are opposed to Home Rule, but say if Home Rule must come they do not want their province excluded. The bankers of Belfast take the same view.

Consent to Election. If the Unionists agree to let the bill go through this year the Liberals will consent to a general election, but otherwise the rank and file of the party and the Laborites as well, will fight to the last to prevent an appeal to the electors until they are sure that they do not have to fight with the advantage of the plural voter, who in the mind of every Liberal must be a Unionist. An Irish Nationalist leader, who probably knows the minds of the back bench Liberal as well as any man in the House of Commons, said recently:

"The only possibility of a general election is that the Unionists find some way out of the Liberal's net. They thought they would do it over the Ulster question, but that having been turned to the advantage of the government by the cry 'Army' against the people they will now have to look to some other means of defeating Mr. Asquith's government."

It was thought, and is still believed in some quarters, that a way will be found by the Liberals to pass the Army Annual Bill which would dissolve the army, but Liberals think that the Unionists, after their experience with the army and Ulster crisis, will leave the army strictly alone. Liberals therefore argue that except for some accident, or Unionist acceptance of the Plural Voting Bill, there will be no election this year but that Parliament will run its full course and be dissolved in 1915.

Boycott Leaders.

Certain Unionist Society leaders have set up a boycott against those who support the government's Home Rule policy. Invitation lists have been ruthlessly cut down and many men and women too, find that they are no longer welcomed at houses where last year they were frequent callers.

It is a repetition of what took place in 1886, when Gladstone introduced his first Home Rule Bill. "Political differences" and "social ostracism" were the result. Gladstone, who was "warned" to social prescription, which would not accept the new policy were specially furious with Whigs who could. Great ladies purified their lists of the names of those who would. Amiable magnates excluded their dinner tables and their country houses once-familiar friends who had hitherto been the great heresy, and even hitherto portraits of the heresiarch were sternly removed from the walls.

Deep Fresh Water. In Lake Balkal, in Asia, the extraordinary depth of more than 5,600 feet has been reached, making this by far the deepest fresh water known. It now appears that Lake Tanganyika, in Africa, may approach this depth, as Capt. Jacobs of the German navy has reported a sounding of 4,190 feet, and a Belgian officer claims to have penetrated still lower. Tanganyika's deepest bottom is at least 1,500 feet below sea level.

APPLY SULPHUR LIKE A COLD CREAM
WHEN SKIN BREAKS OUT
SAYS SULPHUR WILL END ITCHING ECZEMA

In the treatment of the various forms of disfiguring itching and burning skin eruptions such as Acne, Ringworm, Salt Rheum, there is nothing known that can take the place of bold-sulphur cream.

It effects such prompt relief, even in the aggravated Eczema, that it is a never-ending source of amazement to physicians.

For years bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous eruptions by reason of its cooling, parasite-destroying properties. Bold-sulphur is not only parasiticide, but antipruritic and antiseptic, therefore invaluable in overcoming irritable and inflammatory affections of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure, yet in every instance it instantly stops the agonizing itching; subdues the irritation and calms the inflamed, raw skin right up and it is often years later before any Eczema eruption again appears.

Those troubled should obtain from any good pharmacist an ounce of bold-sulphur cream and apply it directly upon the abrasion like an ordinary cold cream. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded is very welcome. This is published for Walter, Luther Dodge Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

CHICAGO CITY COUNCIL TO STOP SALE OF GUNS
(Special to the Gazette.)
Chicago, May 13.—The ordinance passed by the Chicago city council yesterday whereby all purchasers of firearms are required to obtain a permit from the chief of police. Dealers are prevented from exhibiting arms in their show windows and pawnbrokers refused the privilege of displaying arms to the public.

Dealers to sell firearms are required to take out a license costing twenty-five dollars and must submit a list of purchasers to the police department daily. Rigid ordinances govern the sale of arms to criminals, and a fine from fifty to two hundred dollars is allowed for violations. The new ordinance was passed to stop the numerous suicides and murders, the police declaring that a free sale of arms created a dangerous condition of the gunmen.

CHECKMATE.

We have long been fearful lest some powerful enemy should one day fall upon our unprotected Pacific coast. At the height of our recent difficulties with Mexico was a rumor that Japan contemplated taking advantage of our embroilment, for an attack upon the coast, and that this rumor may have been the people's knowledge with satisfaction that the Panama Canal spells "Checkmate" to invasion on the Pacific seaboard.

With the opening of this great waterway, the Atlantic fleet could be mobilized at the Golden Gate long before hostile ships could reach our shores.

The Canal is now ready for the passage of our battlehips. On account of the unsurpassed energy and persistence which the Army brought to its task at Panama, this strategic advantage has been secured several years before the date set in the most prediction. The expeditionary work of Col. Goethals, and his army of ditch-diggers, has strengthened the hands of our government for any possible crisis.

How this stupendous work for the national defense was completed is told in all its details by Fredrick Haskin in a book whose accuracy has been approved by Col. Goethals. Save the coupons appearing in this newspaper and get a copy of this great book.

CHILD CROSS? FEVERISH? SICK?
A cross, peevish, listless child, with coated tongue, pale, doesn't sleep, eats sometimes very little, then again ravenously; stomach sour; breath fetid; pains in stomach, with diarrhoea; grinds teeth while asleep, and starts up with terror—all suggest Worm Killer—something that expels worms almost as fast as you can get it.

Kickapoo Worm Killer has them. Kickapoo Worm Killer is needed. Get a box today. Start at once. You won't have to coax, as Kickapoo Worm Killer is a candy confection. Expels the worms, the cause of your child's trouble. 25c at your druggist.

The Dangers Of Stomach Trouble

Most Everyone Suffers From Stomach Trouble in Some Form. But it's unnecessary because of Kickapoo Worm Killer. Overcomes Any Form of Stomach Trouble.

When the nerves and muscles of the stomach do not receive the proper amount of nerve force there is some kind of trouble. This lack of nerve force is caused by some spinal subluxation causing the dislocated vertebrae to press on the spinal nerves and retard the force which supplies the stomach. My Chiropractic adjustments remove the cause of the entire trouble by relieving the pressure at the spine.

Hundreds of persons who had been troubled for years with stomach trouble have visited me, taken adjustments and are now well and in perfect health, no longer bothered with their stomach. Why do you continue to be sick? Come to my office tomorrow and let me tell you more about Chiropractic.

It's going to be a rotten business year for baseball, thinks Secretary Barnard of the Cleveland Naps. According to Barnard's manner of doing it out not more than five teams will make a nickel. Barnard ignores the Feds. He not only fails to regard them as a major league, but he won't even do them the honor of blaming them for the poor baseball times approaching. "Too much winter baseball, is the reason," says Barnard. "The fans were so well fed up on mere baseball talk last winter that their interest has waned and they don't seem to show enthusiasm over the game this season that is generally the case. Of course bad weather has been somewhat to blame thus far this year, too. The Feds don't account for it because their attendance added to the rest wouldn't make up the deficit. To my notion about the few complaints have been made on this score. And the visiting pitchers seem to think that the Giant pitchers are slipping something over on them."

National league pitchers claim that the pitching box at the Polo grounds, New York, is entirely too high. Quite a few complaints have been made on this score. And the visiting pitchers seem to think that the Giant pitchers are slipping something over on them.

Look out for the Cubs after May 15. Hank O'Day recently gave out the statement that his team would not be in running shape before that time, but that after passing that point they will not have any regard for anyone's feelings. However, none of the other teams has shown any apparent trepidation.

From the New York Sun: "In giving the pitching box of the American league a footnote to the pitcher in question drew Walter Johnson for an opponent."

The Giants have signed a pitcher named Glass—to say nothing of his arm.

Mordecai Brown says that all the needs is a good utility infielder and he'll have the Fed pennant tucked away on ice. Mordecai's bunch is leading the Fed league at present, and drawing great crowds in St. Louis. For once in that town there is a little baseball interest being shown.

The Fed ump's will do well to get help to the personnel of the various clubs whose games they officiate. In a recent Fed exhibition one of the ump's chased three of the local players to the club house for making too much of a demonstration at the bench. They were striving to rattle the opposing twirler and sought to do so by pounding the bench noisily with their bats and carrying on in other ways. Kane, the umpire, waved them to the clubhouse and then planned to fine all three of them. But he didn't know their names. And no one would tell him. A pretty kettle of fish!

STRANGE BUT TRUE.

An eastern scribe says: The Washington team's success depends wholly upon the work of five men, Johnson, Gandil, Foster, Milan and Henry, without whom Griff would be wallowing in the second division mire.

For that matter, where would the Giants be without Matty, Meyers, Doyle, Domenech and Murray? Also, what would become of the Athletics if Baker, Collins, Bender, Plank and Schang were to drop dead?

The Chicago White Sox have changed their title of "hitless wonders" by simply dropping the "wonders" part of it.

Amusements

"THE RISE AND FALL OF NAPOLEON."

The "Rise and Fall of Napoleon" one of the most striking and without a doubt the most stupendous military photoplay ever shown will appear at Myers Opera House for two days commencing Saturday, May 16th.

"The Rise and Fall of Napoleon" is an immensely spectacular pictorial biography of Napoleon, first emperor of the French, depicting the life of the "Little Corporal" from the humble little home in which history's most unique and romantic figure was born, through the vicissitudes of his early life, and his beautiful romance with Josephine, to the pathetic ending of fifteen years of love and devotion, to the first setback, the terrible retreat from Moscow, to the first bitter defeat at Waterloo and the five and one half years of suffering and humiliation on that wind swept, rain drenched and disease-ridden rock "St. Helena," up to the present day.

Still shines o'er the hotel des Invalides, in Paris which rears its noble pillars in honor of the great man who lies there wrapped in the silence of his glory.

The intense realism of every scene, particularly those depicting six of Napoleon's famous battles, the burning of Moscow and the retreat across the ice plains of Russia, has never been equaled. The subject is staged with the greatest accuracy as to details in costumes and settings, the magnificence of some of the scenes being marvelous and where practicable have been taken upon the exact location where the event occurred.

The production is in eight parts, more than two hours being required to show in detail the life story and brilliant career of Napoleon, the "Man of Destiny." More than two years time being devoted in producing the photo-play and the cast includes thousands of people. The production comes direct from long runs in New York and Chicago, is presented under direction of the Shubert Theatrical Co. of New York, and is at the present time in its third week at the Garrick Theatre, St. Louis, to capacity audiences.

APOLLO THEATRE.

"Soldiers of Fortune" will be shown at the Apollo for the last time tonight. It is a most wonderful picture full of real action and thrilling scenes with a love story interwoven. The book has been read by millions and no expense was spared to make the picture true dramatization of the story. U. S. Marines and gunboats and the Cuban Army lend their aid.

Beginning Thursday a first class vaudeville bill will be presented with all feature acts. The entire show promises to be out of the ordinary. Next Monday "Paid in Full" will be presented.

On The Spur of The Moment

Shame on You.

Of course everything has gone crooked.

As crooked as things can well go.

Of course deepest gloom is your portion.

And storm clouds are gathering low.

You're filled with deep, dark disappointments.

In all of the world there's no friend.

Your troubles will surely overwhelm you.

You never will come to an end.

Your note is past due at the bank.

They're going to foreclose on the homestead.

Unless you pull up with a yank.

Your automobile has grown balky.

The kitchen roof's sprung a leak.

And there are nine thousand more troubles.

Of which you would just love to speak.

When things seem as bad as they can be.

Just lay all your cares on the shelf.

There are some folks worse off than you are—

You should be ashamed of yourself.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Now Father Can Have That Roller all to Himself.

By F. LEIPZIGER

FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

John W. Skillen of Sidney, Ohio, Has Found a Remedy.

Experts declare that the reason stomach disorders are so common in this country is due to hasty and careless habits of eating. Stomach troubles and run-down conditions usually go together.

John W. Skillen of Sidney, Ohio, says: "I had a bad stomach trouble for years, and became so weak that I could hardly walk or do any work. My appetite was poor, and it seemed impossible to get any relief. Since taking 'Vinol' I find a remarkable improvement in my health, my digestion is much stronger, and I have gained in weight. I would not be without 'Vinol'."

'Vinol' makes weak stomachs strong because it strengthens and tones up the weakened, tired and overtaxed nerves of the digestive organs. 'Vinol' is easily assimilated by the weakest stomachs, and is delicious to the taste. Try a bottle of 'Vinol' with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Smith Drug Co., Druggists, Janesville, Wis. P. S.—Stop scratching, our Sazo Salve stops itching. We guarantee it.

The Deepest Hole.
The deepest hole in the world up to date is the boring begun ten years ago at Czuchow, Silesia, with the object of attaining a depth of 2,550 metres, and which has now reached a depth of 2,240 metres (7,349 feet). The bore is 44 centimetres (17 inches) in diameter at the top and diminishes progressively to nine centimetres.

IN JANESVILLE

The Evidence Is Supplied by Local Testimony.

If the reader wants stronger proof than the following statement and experience of a resident of Janesville, what can it be?

W. Allen, retired farmer, 468 N. Chatham St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I suffered from rheumatic pains in my back when I bent over. My muscles and joints were twisted out of shape. My feet were swollen and the flesh under my eyes was all puffed up. I couldn't sleep. My kidneys acted too freely and the kidney secretions were scanty. The passages were accompanied by a burning pain. I had to be careful of my feet. I would catch cold. I felt miserable. I spent hundreds of dollars for doctors' treatments, but I kept growing worse. One day the doctor told me I would be dead in three months. Then I got Doan's Kidney Pills from the People's Drug Co. and they completely and permanently cured me. My kidneys have been in good shape since. The swellings have all left me and the rheumatism is all gone. I am hale and hearty even if I am seventy-seven years old. Six years ago Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and after three doctors said I would die. I did all the heavy work on my farm without a bit of trouble."

And all the while Mrs. Harrigan was talking and he was replying, and she thought him charming, whereas he had not formed any opinion of her at all, nor later could remember a word of the conversation.

"Tea!" bawled the colonel. The verb had its distinct uses, and one generally applied it to the colonel's outbursts without being depressed by the feeling of inelegance.

There is invariably some slight hesitation in the selection of chairs around a tea table in the open. Nora scored the first point of this singular battle by seizing the padre on one side and her father on the other and pulling them down on the bench. It was adroit in two ways: it put Courtlandt at a safe distance and in nowise offended the younger men, who could find no cause for alarm in the close proximity of her two fathers, the spiritual and the physical. A few moments later Courtlandt saw a smile of malice part her lips, for he found himself between Celeste and the inevitable frump.

"Touched," he murmured, for he was a thorough sportsman and appreciated a good point even when taken by his opponent.

"I never saw anything like it," whispered Mrs. Harrigan into the colonel's ear.

"Saw what?" he asked.

"Mr. Courtlandt can't keep his eyes off of Nora."

"I say!" The colonel adjusted his eye-glass, not that he expected to see more clearly by doing so, but because habit had long since turned an affection into a movement wholly mechanical. "Well, who can blame him? Gad! if I were only twenty-five or thereabouts."

Mrs. Harrigan did not encourage this regret. The colonel had never been a rich man. On the other hand, this Edward Courtlandt was very rich; he was young; and he had the entrée to the best families in Europe, which was greater in her eyes than either youth or riches. Between sips of tea she builded a fine castle in Spain.

Abbott and the Barone carried their cups and cakes over to the bench and sat down on the grass, Turkish-wise. Both simultaneously offered their cakes, and Nora took a lady finger from each. Abbott laughed and the Barone smiled.

"Oh, daddy mine!" sighed Nora drolly.

"Huh?"

"Don't let mother see those shoes."

"What's the matter with 'em? Everybody's wearing the same."

"Yes. But I don't see how you manage to do it. One shoe string is virgin white and the other is pagan brown."

"I've got nine pairs of shoes, and yet there's always something the matter," ruefully. "I never noticed when I put them on. Besides, I wasn't coming."

"That's no defense. But rest easy. I'll be as secret as the grave."

"Now, I for one would never have noticed if you hadn't called my attention," said the padre, stealing a glance at his own immaculate patent leathers.

"Ah, padre, that wife of mine has eyes like a pilot-fish. I'm in for it."

"Borrow one from the colonel before you go home," suggested Abbott.

"That's not half bad," gratefully.

Harrigan began to recount the trials of forgetfulness.

had changed scarcely at all; and then, because these two years had left so little mark upon his face, a tinge of unreasonable anger ran over her. "Men have died and worms have eaten them," she thought cynically. Perhaps the air between them was sufficiently charged with electricity to convey the impression across the intervening space; for his eyes came up quickly, but not quickly enough to catch her. She dropped her glance to Abbott, transferred it to the Barone, and finally let it rest on her father's face. Four handsome men she had never seen.

"You never told me you knew Courtlandt," said Harrigan, speaking to Abbott.

"Just happened that way. We went to school together. When I was little they used to make me wear curls and wide collars. Many's the time Courtlandt walloped the school bullies for muzzling me up. I don't see him much these days. Once in a while he walks in. That's all. Always seems to know where his friends are, but none ever knows where he is."

Abbott proceeded to elaborate some of his friend's exploits. Nora heard, as if from afar. Vaguely she caught a glimpse of what the contest was going to be. She could see only a little way; still, she was optimistically confident of the result. She was ready. Indeed, now that the shock of the meeting was past, she found herself not at all averse to a conflict. It would be something to let go the pent-up wrath of two years. Never would she speak to him directly; never would she permit him to be alone with her; never would she miss a chance to twist his heart, to humiliate him, to snub him. From her point of view, whatever game he chose to play would be a losing one. She was genuinely surprised to learn how eager she was for the game to begin so that she might gauge his strength.

"So I have heard," she was dimly conscious of saying.

"Didn't know you knew," said Abbott.

"Knew what?" rousing herself.

"That Courtlandt nearly lost his life in the eighties."

"In the eighties!" dismayed at her slip.

"Latitudes. Polar expedition."

"Heavens! I was miles away."

The padre took her hand in his own and began to pat it softly. It was the nearest he dared approach in the way of suggesting caution. He alone of them all knew.

"Oh, I believe I read something about it in the newspapers."

"Five years ago," Abbott set down his tea cup. "He's the bravest man I know. He's rather a friendless man, besides. Horror of money. Thinks every one is after him for that. Tries to throw it away; but the income piles up too quickly. See that Indian, passing the cakes? Wouldn't think it would you, that Courtlandt carried him on his back for five miles! The Indian had fallen after a wounded tiger, and the beaters were miles off. I've been watching. They haven't even spoken to each other. Courtlandt's probably forgotten all about the incident, and the Indian would die rather than embarrass his savior before strangers."

"Your friend, then, is quite a hero?"

"What was the matter with Nora's voice? Abbott looked at her wonderingly. The tone was hard and unmusical.

"He couldn't be anything else, being Dick Courtlandt's boy," volunteered Harrigan, with enthusiasm. "It runs in the family."

"It seems strange," observed Nora. "That I never heard you mention that you knew a Mr. Courtlandt."

"Why, Nora, there's a lot of things nobody mentions unless chance brings them up. Courtlandt—the one I knew—has been dead these sixteen years. If I knew he had had a son, I'd forgotten all about it. The only graveyard isn't on the hillside; there's one under everybody's thatch."

The padre nodded approvingly.

Nora was not particularly pleased with this phase in the play. Courtlandt would find a valiant champion in her father, who would blunder in when some fine passes were being exchanged. And she could not tell him; she would have cut out her tongue rather. It was true that she held the principal cards in the game, but she could not table them and claim the tricks as in bridge. She must patiently wait for him to lead, and he, as she very well knew, would lead a card at a time, and then only after mature deliberation. From the exhilaration which attended the prospect of battle she passed into a state of depression, which lasted the rest of the afternoon.

"Will you forgive me?" asked Celeste of Courtlandt. Never had she felt more ill at ease. For a full ten minutes he chatted pleasantly, with never the slightest hint regarding the episode in Paris. She could stand it no longer. "Will you forgive me?"

"For what?"

"That night in Paris."

"Do not permit that to bother you in the least. I was never going to recall it."

"Was it so unpleasant?"

"On the contrary, I was much amused."

"I did not tell you the truth."

"So I have found out."

"I do not believe that it was you," impulsively.

"Thanks. I had nothing to do with Miss Harrigan's imprisonment."

"Do you feel that you could make a confidant of me?"

He smiled. "My dear Miss Fournier, I have come to the place where I distrust even myself."

"Forgive my curiosity!"

Courtlandt held out his cap to Rao.

"I am glad to see you again."

"Ah, Sabiti!"

The little Frenchwoman was torn with curiosity and repression. She wanted to know what causes had produced this unusual drama which was unfolding before her eyes. To be presented with effects which had no apparent causes was maddening. It was not dissimilar to being taken to the second act of a modern problem play and being forced to leave before the curtain rose upon the third act. She had laid all the traps her intelligent mind could invent; and Nora had calmly walked over them or around. Nora's mind was Celtic; French in its adroitness and Irish in its watchfulness and tenacity. And now she had set her arts of persuasion in motion (aided by a piquant beauty) to lift a corner of the veil from this man's heart. Checkmate!

"I should like to help you," she said truthfully.

"In what way?"

It was useless, but she continued: "She does not know that you went to Florida Desimone's that night."

"And yet she sent you to watch me."

"But so many things happened afterward that she evidently forgot."

"That is possible."

"I was asleep when the pistol went off. Oh, you must believe that it was purely accidental! She was in a terrible state until morning. What if she had killed you, what if she had killed you! She seemed to harp upon that phrase."

Courtlandt turned a sober face toward her. She might be sincere, and then again she might be playing the first game over again, in a different guise. "It would have been embarrassing if the bullet had found its mark." He met her eyes squarely, and she saw that his were totally free from surprise or agitation or interest.

"Will you be here long?"

"It depends."

"Upon Nora?" persistently.

"The weather."

"You are hopeless."

"No; on the contrary, I am the most optimistic man in the world."

She looked into this reply very carefully. If he had hopes of winning Nora Harrigan, optimistic he certainly must be. Perhaps it was not optimism. Rather might it not be a purpose made of steel, bendable but not breakable, reinforced by a knowledge of conditions which she would have given worlds to learn?

"Is she not beautiful?"

"I am not a poet."

"Wait a moment," her eyes widened.

ing. "I believe you know who did commit that outrage."

"For the first time he frowned.

"Very well; I promise not to ask any more questions."

"That would be very agreeable to me." Then, as if he realized the rudeness of his reply, he added: "Before I leave I will tell you all you wish to know, upon one condition."

"Tell it!"

"You will say nothing to any one, you will question neither Miss Harrigan nor myself, nor permit yourself to be questioned."

"I agree."

"And now, will you not take me over to your friends?"

"Over there?" agast.

"Why, yes. We can sit upon the grass. They seem to be having a good time."

What a man! Take him over, into the enemy's camp? Nothing would be more agreeable to her. Who would be the stronger, Nora or this provoking man?

So they crossed over and joined the group. The padre smiled. It was a situation such as he loved to study: a strong man and a strong woman, at war. But nothing happened; not a ripple anywhere to disclose the agitation beneath. The man laughed and the woman laughed, but they spoke not to each other, nor looked once into each other's eyes.

The sun was dropping toward the western tops. The guests were leaving by twos and threes. The colonel had prevailed upon his dinner guests not to bother about going back to the village to dress, but to dine in the clothes they wore. Finally, none remained but Harrigan, Abbott, the Barone, the padre and Courtlandt. And they talked noisily and agreeably concerning man affairs until Rao gravely announced that dinner was served.

It was only then, during the lull which followed, that light was shed upon the puzzle which had been subconsciously stirring Harrigan's mind: Nora had not once spoken to the son of his old friend.

Don't read this little sketch unless you have an auto for sale, or want to buy one. As our population today may be divided into two classes; the ones who own, and the ones who contemplate buying, we think it might be safe to let you in on this.

We know a man, right here in our town who but yesterday bought an Auto, a second hand one, for less than three hundred dollars. No, he isn't on our family tree—we wish he were; neither is the Auto a fit object for the scrap heap. The man who sold it is in need of larger car; while the buyer is satisfied that the car he purchased is just what he needed.
